Tax Clampdown Held Necessary

Added Revenue Might Balance Budget, Claim

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Congress may call for a crack-down on tax evaders and close some tax law "loopholes" before it considers any legislation to raise tax rates on individuals or corporations.

Rep. Forand (D-RI), member of the tax-framing house ways and means committee, today told newsmen:

"If every tax legally owed the government were collected, I believe the budget could be balanced without resorting to any tax increases."

Treasury and congressional tax experts now are studying the problem of tax dodging. Some estimated that the government is losing $5,000,000,000 a year by tax evasion and by the so-called loopholes.

If that amount were collected it would just about cover what the government needs to balance the budget.

Meanwhile, Republicans on Capitol Hill—expecting considerable support from Democrats—lined up for battle against any proposal President Truman may make for tax increases.

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., the house GOP leader, issued a formal statement saying he expects the President to propose a multi-billion dollar tax-hiking program "so that the administration can proceed with its extravagant and illiberal plan to socialize America."

"A tax increase at this time," he said, "would have a depressive effect on economic conditions generally and might precipitate the country into a tail-spin which would cost millions of workers their jobs."

He predicted defeat for any tax-upping bill.

Martin renewed his plea for a slash of around $600,000,000 to $750,000,000 a year in the war-imposed excise rates on such things as furs, jewelry, luggage, communications and transportation.

Yule Day Mishap Shuts Off Leetonia Water

LEETONIA, Dec. 27—The village of Leetonia was without water for more than 12 hours Christmas day.

A car owned by William Arbuckle of Columbiana, broke loose from its parking place in front of the home of his brother-in-law, Ralph Sposetta of Chestnut st. about 3:30 p. m., struck a fire plug in front of the Woods furniture store at the corner of E. Main st. and Chestnut st. and finally came to a stop against the front of the Manos Theater. Sposetta is superintendent of the waterworks.

Holiday Mishaps Kill More Than 500

(By The Associated Press) Black crepe replaced the green holly in the home of more than 500 persons killed in violent accidents across the nation over the extended Christmas holiday.

Nearly 400 of the deaths resulted from traffic accidents. The traffic toll—387—was under the estimated 435 made by the National Safety Council for the period from 6 p. m. last Friday to midnight Monday.

But the total soared far above 500 with other violent deaths. Sixty-five persons were killed in fires and 92 others lost their lives in accidents of miscellaneous causes. These included shootings, falls, electrocutions, plane crashes, exposure and asphyxiation.

Tragedy came to many homes in place of Santa Claus. A mother and her six children perished in a fire which swept their small home in San Antonio, Tex. Another Texas family of five was wiped out in an automobile-gasoline truck accident.

Texas led the nation with 55 violent deaths.

Lighting Contest Has 40 Entries

Judging Will Take Place On Thursday

An unusually large number of outdoor Christmas lighting displays is attracting attention in the Salem area this holiday season.

Spurred on by a lighting contest sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a total of 40 homes owners has entered the contest, it is revealed. Many of the exhibitions are in Salem, while a number are to be found in outlying rural areas.

Nine trophies are to be awarded and the judging will take place Thursday evening.

Jaycee Contest Chairman William Keck said entries still can be phoned in (dial 7768).

The committee extended the deadline so that all lighting enthusiasts may participate in the contest in a move to encourage Christmas lighting in future years.

There is no style or type classifications but the contest is divided into two divisions, one for Salem proper and the other for rural areas.

The eight place trophies have been secured by the Jaycees with Mullins Manufacturing Corp. sponsoring the 20-inch grand prize trophy.

Salemite's Driving License Revoked

ALLIANCE, Dec. 27—The long Christmas weekend produced one of the heaviest police courts of the year and resulted in the appearance of seven persons in court here this morning.

Salem and Canton men drew the stiffest penalties when they pleaded guilty to traffic charges.

George E. Scott, 42, of 288 Washington ave., Salem, arrested by deputy sheriffs Sunday on Route 62, was fined $100 and costs and lost his driving rights for five years after pleading guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

It was the second time in six months that the Salem man had faced Judge Harry Wyckoff on similar charges. Last June 14, he was fined $100 and costs and had his driving rights suspended for six months. However, on July 21 he filed a financial responsibility bond and insurance with the state and his license was restored.

The other heavy sentence was given to Harold C. Anthony, 25, of Canton, who was fined $25 and costs and lost his driving rights for 90 days on a reckless driving charge. He was given an additional $25 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of failure to heed the command of a police officer following his arrest Monday.

Flying Saucers Space Ships? Claim Kindles New Controversy

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—A sensational claim that so-called "flying saucers" are space vehicles from another planet kindled new controversy on the subject today.

The Air Force promptly discounted the claim. A spokesman said:

"Air Force studies of 'flying saucers' lend no support to the view that they come from another planet."

The assertion that the flying discs are real and that they are used by visitors from another planet was made by True magazine in an article it calls the "most important true story we have ever published."

Transit Strike Ended By Court Order

Cleveland Union Votes To Observe Court Injunction

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27—(AP)—AFL unionists bowed to a court injunction today and called off the city's six-day transit strike.

By a voice vote, members of the AFL-Transit union voted overwhelmingly to abide by an injunction ordering them to give up the strike against the city-owned Cleveland Transit System.

Buses and street cars were expected to start rolling almost immediately. The injunction set a 2 p. m. deadline.

Transit officials, however, said no attempt would be made before tomorrow to maintain normal schedules.

The unexpected strike by some 4,200 persons began early last Thursday. It had paralyzed public transportation in the nation's sixth largest city.

Common Pleas Judge Joseph A. Artl issued the injunction last night following a special hearing. It was only a matter of an hour or so before Thomas P. Meaney, president of striking Local 268, agreed to the judge's directive. But first he insisted that the Transit board promise there would be no punishment against anyone participating in the six-day walkout.

To this, the transit board said "yes" — in writing. In turn, Meaney and other officials assured the firm there would be no attempt to reopen the issue of paid vacations during the present contract.

That was the basis for the walkout in the first place. David Ralph Hert, CTS umpire, ruled last June that operating employees should receive only 88 hours of paid vacations annually, starting in 1950.

Previously, these employees had been receiving 96 hours. They struck in hopes that would be continued.

In ruling against the transit strikers, Judge Artl made it plain that he felt Ohio's Ferguson act was entirely justified in outlawing strikes by public employees. He said:

"I say that such a strike is one means of destroying government and if you destroy government you have anarchy and chaos. I believe that is why the legislature has spelled out the common law (in the Ferguson act)."

"I think it is clear that in our system of government, the government is the servant of all the people. And a strike against the public, a strike by public employees, has been denominated in decisions as a rebellion against government."

Baby Delivered As Mother Dies

Credit Clinic Staff With Saving Child

Quick-thinking physicians at the Salem Central Clinic delivered a healthy, six-pound, one-ounce baby boy by Caesarian operation after the mother died suddenly in the hospital's emergency room Saturday evening.

The mother, Mrs. Annie Mae Lutz, 27, of R. D. 2, Lisbon, came to the hospital at 6 p. m. with her husband, Fred, and complained of feeling ill. Shortly afterwards, while talking to a doctor, she went into a convulsion.

Two other doctors were summoned and an emergency tracheotomy was performed to open the woman's windpipe in an attempt to save her life, but she died within a few minutes.

The staff surgeon then performed the Caesarian and delivered the child at 6:15.

The case was a parallel to one at City hospital a year ago when a Caesarian operation saved a baby after the mother died suddenly of heart failure.

Born May 3, 1922, in Cullman county, Alabama, Mrs. Lutz was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Hall. She lived in this vicinity for several years.

Surviving are her husband; two sons, Willard and Thomas; her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Hall, of Columbiana; three brothers, Jewell of New Garden, Jack of Lisbon and James of Columbiana; four sisters, Mrs. Bessie Frank of Salem, Mrs. Jessie Conrad of Salem, Mrs. Ona Thacker of Hurricane, W. Va., and Miss Wilda Hall of Columbiana.

Funeral service was held at 2 p. m. today at the Henry funeral home, in charge of Rev. C. F. Kenneweg. Burial was made in Lisbon cemetery.

Firemen Answer 4 Holiday Alarms

The Salem fire department was called four times over the holiday weekend, but none of the blazes was of a serious nature.

A smoking motor in a car at Second and Lundy brought the department at 1:49 p. m. Saturday. The owner of the car is unknown. Little damage resulted.

A trash fire in the basement of the Phil Weidenhof home at 510 Perry st., was extinguished at 9:55 p. m. Saturday with no damage.

Some damage was caused by a fire resulting from a short in the wiring along the ceiling at the Endres-Gross flower shop at 603 E. State st., at 11:17 p. m. Saturday.

The department was called to the Floding-Reynard drug store building at State and Ellsworth at 8:22 a. m. today. There was no fire, only a smoking incinerator.

Dies Monday After Long Illness; Rites Wednesday

Ralph W. Hawley, publisher of The Salem News and a prominent civic leader, died at 12:30 a. m. Monday in City Hospital after a lingering illness. He was 61.

Mr. Hawley, who had spent his entire lifetime in newspaper work, had been active in almost every phase of Salem's civic and community endeavors.

Death climaxed a long struggle against a liver disorder that had twice sent him to the hospital. He first entered the hospital two years ago, in August of 1947, but recovered sufficiently to spend two subsequent winters in California. His condition became more aggravated late this summer and he again entered the hospital on August 16.

Despite his confinement, he managed to attend to some of the business affairs of his paper. However, like his close associate, the late Louis H. Brush, Mr. Hawley never was able to enjoy The Salem News' new building which he played an important role in planning.

Mr. Hawley's life was one devoted to the newspaper enterprise and his home town. A year ago he started to write a book about Salem.

Humble Beginning

Mr. Hawley rose from carrier boy to editor, and then became publisher of The News.

He began his career in 1906, as a reporter for The News, following graduation from Salem High School. He became editor in 1910, served five years in that capacity and then became managing editor of the East Liverpool Tribune.

For five years he was in Youngstown as telegraph editor, city editor and managing editor of The Youngstown Telegram.

Mr. Hawley returned to Salem in January, 1921, as editor of The News. He was made editor and publisher in March, 1928, at which time he also became general manager of The Salem Label Co.

Born July 10, 1888, on a farm just south of Salem on Lisbon rd., he was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Hawley. He came to Salem at the age of two with his parents. Educated in Salem public schools, he was a graduate of Salem High school and the Salem Business College.

Active in Many Fields

Active in football, basketball and track in school days, Mr. Hawley continued active interest in sports programs in Salem throughout his life. He was high school football official for several years and later was an official of the O. & P. baseball league during the years when Salem had teams in that league.

He organized and was first president of Salem Athletic club.

U. S. Arms Aid To Begin In February

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 — (AP)—American officials now estimate that United States arms and military equipment will begin moving to Western Europe about Feb. 1—about a month behind schedule.

This delayed start means the administration will have only five months to use the $1,000,000,000 congress appropriated to rearm the Atlantic pact countries.

Unless the money is spent or earmarked by June 30, when the fiscal year ends, it will go back to the United States treasury.

Officials expressed confidence, however, that the fund could be spent or allocated within the time limit. Most of the paper work already has been done, they said, and the way is clear for rapid-fire orders once arms aid agreements are signed with each country.

Much of the delay stems from the unexpectedly lengthy discussions with the British government over explicit terms.

Each of the eight Atlantic pact countries that are to get American arms must sign separate agreements with the United States which specify how American equipment is to be used in defense of the North Atlantic area.

He was married in 1918 to Miss Lora Hill of East Liverpool, who died in 1929. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Grace Epler of Los Angeles, Calif., and one brother, Roy K. Hawley of Akron.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at the Arbaugh - Pearce funeral home, with burial in Hope cemetery.

Dr. C. B. Ketcham, president of Mount Union college, will officiate if he can return in time from Syracuse N. Y., where he is spending the holidays.

Calling hours will be observed this evening at the funeral home.

Mr. Hawley was appointed by Mayor R. R. Johnson to a six-year term when the City Planning Commission was organized in 1944 and was later made chairman, which office he still held.

Senate Race. Draws Interest

Ex-Aide To Bridges Wants Tobey's Job

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Most senators and all of their administrative assistants are watching a unique senate primary race in New Hampshire these days.

The contestants are:

Senator Charles W. Tobey, Republican incumbent and at the age of 69 one of the most energetic and explosive members of congress.

J. Wesley Powell, former administrative assistant to Tobey's Republican colleague, Senator Styles Bridges.

Powell, only 34 and an attorney and World War II veteran, is the first of the 96 senate administrative assistants ever to make a bid for the senate.

He gave up his $10,000 a year job with Bridges before making formal announcement that he would try to unseat the veteran Tobey.

The new posts of administrative assistants to senators were created by a 1946 act. The job is supposed to go to an expert who can do staff work for the lawmakers.

Previously secretaries to senators have won senate places through appointments and elections. Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) at one time was a senate secretary.

But the thing that has senators and their administrative assistants talking is the fact that Powell would step out of Bridges' office to try to beat Tobey in the same state and same party.

There has been no public break between the two New Hampshire Republican senators although they often are on opposite sides on major issues.

Tobey has a record of never having lost an election contest in a steady climb from town selectman, up through both houses of the state legislature, governor, member of the U. S. house and then finally the senate.

AFL Paper Lists Political Undesirables

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor feels that both Ohio's U. S. senators and seven of its congressmen have "opposed the best interests of workers, farmers and small businessmen" this year.

The Ohioans are among 26 senators and 81 representatives so described in "The League Reporter," weekly newspaper of the AFL's League for Political Education. The paper did not ask specifically for defeat of those it listed but said they had failed to "vote right" on key labor-farm-small business issues.

In addition to Ohio Senators Robert A. Taft and John W. Bricker, the list included 23 other Republicans and one Democrat, Senator Byrd of Virginia.

Ohio representatives named were Bolton, Brown, Clevenger, Elston, McGregor, Smith and Vorys. All are Republicans, and, like other members of the house, will be up for re-election next year. So will Senator Taft.

ticular from well-developed American plans for the exploration of space expected to come to fruition within the next 50 years. There is reason to believe, however, that some other race of thinking beings is a matter of two and a quarter centuries ahead of us.

The article says that "project saucer," operated by U. S. Army Air Force investigators and charged with solving the mystery, "are receiving and evaluating" reports of sighted flying discs at the rate of 12 a month. True learned, Keyhoe says, that a "rocket authority stationed at Wright field has told 'project saucer' personnel flatly that the saucers are interplanetary and that no other conclusion is possible."

Cases of reliably reported sighting, the writer says, are closely checked by teams of air intelligence officers and technicians.

"Astronomers, rocket experts, guided missile consultants, aeromedical men and other specialists work on a hush-hush basis," Keyhoe said.

The magazine says the interplanetary vehicles have been identified and categorized as three main types—a small, non-pilot carrying disc-shaped aircraft equipped with some form of television or impulse transmitter; a metallic, disc-shaped aircraft operating on a helicopter principle, and a dirigible-shaped, wingless aircraft.

"It is the opinion of True," the article states, "that the flying saucers are real and that they come from no enemy on earth. It is also True's opinion that the Air Forces and project saucer are doing a serious important job to safeguard American security."

ARSON PLOT FOILED

COLUMBUS, Dec. 27—(AP)—Willard Swisher, a school fireman, yesterday foiled an apparent arson attempt at North High school, police said. Swisher found that smoke which filled the school was coming from ignited clothing in a boy's locker. William A. Harold, school engineer, said it looked as if someone had shoved lighted matches under the door of the locker.

2,500 Attend Carol Sing In Columbiana

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 27—A crowd estimated at about 2,500 attended the first annual community Christmas carol sing at the public square Saturday evening, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. President George Seederly and Maurice Lehman of the chamber had charge of arrangements.

At the conclusion of the sing, treats were given 750 children under 12 years of age. Each child received a popcorn ball, candy cane, apple, bubble gum and balloon.

More than 900 children, 500 more than last year, received treats at the Eagles' Christmas tree at the southwest corner of the public square early in the afternoon. A supply of 750 gift packages was quickly exhausted, and 200 more were provided. The treat was followed by entertainment at the theater.

It was the second annual Christmas party given by Clipper Aerie of Columbiana for the children of Columbiana, New Waterford, East Fairfield and vicinity. Each gift package contained an orange, apple, nuts, hard candy and chocolate creams.

Queen Proclaims Independence

Ancient Dutch Rule Ended Over Indonesia

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Queen Juliana of the Netherlands proclaimed independence for 77,000,000 Indonesians today in a simple palace ceremony that ended 300 years of Dutch rule over the rich Pacific isles of the East Indies.

With her signature, the new United States of Indonesia officially became a sovereign republic. The ceremony also marked the beginning of the Dutch-Indonesian union under which the two nations will be loosely linked under the Dutch crown.

On the other side of the world, dark-skinned natives celebrated the independence for which they fought four years of sporadic guerrilla warfare. U.S.I. leaders took over control of the Indonesian capital of Batavia, Java, from Dutch troops.

Amidst the solemn formality in the marble-walled "Civil Hall" of the palace Premier Mohammed Hatta was present to represent his new country.

The brief program was concluded by the queen's speech, followed by the playing of the Indonesian national anthem, "Indonesia Raya" and the Dutch hymn "Wilhelmus" on the palace carillon.

At almost the same moment the two anthems were being played in Batavia, with the raising of the Indonesian red and white flag over the former governor general's palace.

The ceremony in Amsterdam was opened by Premier Dr. Willem Drees, who confirmed the ratification of the agreement as the result of 10 weeks of Dutch-Indonesian round-table discussions last summer.

Earthquakes Cause Havoc In Japan

TOKYO, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Heavy snow today spread a new blanket of misery over central Japan, where eight persons were killed and hundreds left homeless by 20-odd earth tremors between Sunday night and this morning.

National rural police said eight were killed and one person was missing. Many were injured but only one seriously. Eighty-six homes and buildings collapsed and 283 others were badly damaged.

Early tonight a 40 second tremor disrupted electric light connections in one Tokyo district. The central meteorological observatory termed the earthquake weak. Its epicenter was about 65 miles north of Tokyo.

The earth's convulsions were felt in nine prefectures of Honshu, Japan's big central island. Imai-chi, a city of 17,000 about 85 miles north of Tokyo, suffered most.

Approximately 100 Americans were in the stricken area, where the U. S. army has several rest hotels. All escaped injury.

Christmas Buying

While business statisticians are assembling the details of Christmas buying, it could be wished there might be some way to see beyond the statistics. There are many things about the goods which move from store rooms into the American home during December that can't be revealed by figures.

For example, there is no way of knowing what proportion of the merchandise which gets into consumers' hands between Thanksgiving and Christmas would have been purchased under ordinary circumstances and therefore does not represent Christmas buying at all.

It is impossible to know how many items are bought in the few weeks before Christmas, for presentation as Christmas presents, which would have to be bought at some other time if Christmas hadn't become the annual climax of merchandising in the United States. Many men, for instance, depend on Christmas to supply them with neckties, socks, shirts and gloves. If it weren't for Christmas, these items would have to be purchased at some other time.

At the other extreme, it would be interesting to know how many things which wouldn't be bought and couldn't be sold at any other time are bought and sold just because it's Christmas. They represent whatever net increase in sales totals must be credited to Christmas. Nearly everything else would be bought at some other time if Christmas hadn't become the traditional time for equipping the American people for another year.

Collectivized Charity

Detroit's apparent success with its first fully collectivized welfare fund will tempt other communities to try the same thing. But before the Motor City's experience with the so-called "Michigan Plan" is accepted as evidence that the plan works, it should be realized there is a strong dissent to federated fund raising.

The dissent arises from belief that collectivized charity is contrary to the American way of life. That it is essentially the same threat against the preservation of individual responsibility as the threat of collectivized business enterprise. The American National Red Cross, which is unalterably opposed to federated fund raising, states the case like this:

"Charitable giving is and should remain a voluntary act—a tangible expression of personal faith on the part of the giver. Even at some cost in time and hard work, the American people should avoid and resist any tendency to regiment the humanitarian impulse."

The Red Cross believes the ultimate effect of jumping all money in one fund and letting someone else decide how to allocate it will be sterilization of the charitable impulse. It argues that the consequence would be a steady decline in the total of all charitable donations, relative to need. It contends that federated fund-raising would make it virtually impossible for any new enterprise to make a place for itself in competition with agencies whose vested interests already was established. And it warns that the long-range purpose of the federated plan is to collectivize all charitable control at the national level, at the expense of local discretion about the use of funds.

Robert Keith Leavitt in his excellent book, "Common Sense About Fund Raising," reaches this conclusion:

"You cannot regiment business or science, education or religion into utopian patterns without dehumanizing them—you have only to look at totalitarian regimes to see that. Yet businessmen whose whole success is founded upon typical American initiative, enterprise and freedom of action become so fascinated with the bright picture of not being 'pestered' that they fall for a novel proposal without realizing that it would regiment charity and welfare straight along totalitarian lines."

Brazilians Can Read

Sooner or later in searching for the whys and wherefores of the rising cost of coffee it's bound to occur to some investigator that Brazilians can read.

That would explain everything.

The Brazilians, Colombians and the other coffee farmers who supply the American market may have read somewhere how it's done in the U. S. A.

A surplus hanging over the market is bad for prices. Therefore, the way to keep prices from sagging is to get rid of the surplus. Produce less coffee. Take the same attitude toward consumers as is taken by that famous American, John L. Lewis. Perhaps the coffee farmers thought of that.

Or they may have borrowed the idea of the United States government itself, which buys up surplus agricultural commodities and gets rid of them catch-as-catch-can, to create artificial shortages and thereby hold up the price.

Or perhaps they took a page from the record of American business enterprises which keep a weather eye cocked for the market and don't aim to fill up the pipelines—or the coffee percolators—with an unmanageable surplus.

Since the general aim of the investigation of coffee prices seems to be to find a villain, it's possible the villain might turn out to be, among others, the United States itself. This country has learned a lot lately about rigging the law of supply and demand.

Ban On Restrictive Covenants

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON

IT MAY take some months to measure correctly the real effects of the Truman administration's new ban against racially restrictive covenants in government-insured housing mortgages.

If the politicians had allowed Federal Housing Administration and Veterans' Administration to issue their new regulations in a routine manner, the whole affair might have caused little concern. It would probably have been regarded as mere legal conformity with the Supreme Court decision of last May, holding that restrictive covenants were unenforceable.

What caused all the uproar was having Solicitor General Philip B. Perlman make the first announcement. He did this in a political speech before the New York State Committee on Discrimination in Housing. That may have pleased the racial groups that have long fought housing segregation. But it rubbed many more people the wrong way. They didn't know what it meant. Not having the actual regulations before them, they were scared that restrictions of any kind on ownership, sale of rental of property would be outlawed.

Now that the new regulations have been issued by FHA Administrator Franklin D. Richards and VA Administrator Carl Gray, it can be seen that these first fears were largely unjustified.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, the new regulations are effective only after Feb. 15, 1950. Between now and then, buyers and sellers of property, landlords and tenants also can make any kind of a restrictive covenant they wish. FHA and VA will insure mortgages which have such covenants in deeds or leases. Similarly, existing deeds and leases containing covenants will not be affected.

What happens after Feb. 15 is something else. Some realtors feel that for a few months thereafter there will be a slowdown in government-insured mortgages. Bankers, builders, mortgagors and mortgagees will be feeling their way to see how strictly FHA and VA officials enforce their regulations in specific cases, and what penalties they may apply in forcing foreclosure for violations.

Other realtors, pointing to the fact that the building season usually begins in March, say that there will be no slowdown. For one thing, government insurance covers only a third of the total U. S. mortgage debt. So even if the new regulations drove the government completely out of the field, it would not mean the complete ruin of the real estate mortgage business. It would, however, most seriously affect the small home purchaser, who can't get such favorable terms from banks, insurance, building and loan companies unless he has government insurance on his mortgage.

THERE IS SOME FEAR that the new regulations will result in "bootlegged" covenants. Since covenants on government-insured mortgages can no longer be made part of the deed, there may be an effort to write racial or religious bans as secret or side agreements. Smart lawyers will no doubt try to use every device they can think of to beat the new restriction.

Racial and religious covenants completely upset property values and create havoc in the real estate market.

The mortgage debt in the United States is the largest single item of private indebtedness. There is at present little inclination among the working administration agencies to knock the props out from under this business. If it should be upset, all the insurance reserves of the Federal Housing Administration might have to be drawn on to protect mortgage lenders.

As matters stand today, the Supreme Court decision and the government housing agency regulations both recognize that every property owner has the right to rent or sell only to whom he pleases. As long as this fundamental principle of not depriving a person of his "liberty or property with due process of law" is not upset, there may be not too much fear from this latest government regulation.

Health To You

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

Diabetes Insipidus Marked By Thirst

ALTHOUGH diabetes insipidus is not a common disorder

several people have written inquiring about it. So-called sugar diabetes — diabetes mellitus — is different and should not be confused with it.

In diabetes insipidus large quantities of urine are passed but it does not contain sugar. This disease is more common in young persons than in older ones and in boys and men than in girls and women.

The symptoms usually develop gradually although sudden onsets have been reported. A great increase in the amount of urine excreted is the most constant symptom and an increased amount of thirst is also frequent.

Someone suffering from diabetes insipidus may pass nearly four gallons of urine in 24 hours.

The inconvenience of this disease is therefore obvious especially if the victim attempts to quench the accompanying thirst. The appetite is likely to be normal which is different from that in the common form of sugar diabetes in which hunger is likely to be excessive. In many cases the general health does not seem to suffer. People have been known to live with diabetes insipidus

BIBLE THOUGHTS

But the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities unto Gibeah, to go out to battle against the children of Israel.—Judges 20:14.

The other day an item appeared there which stated that Russia's Amtorg Trading Corp. had decided to abandon its nine-story New York headquarters and move to a smaller building. This was immediately seized upon by the experts as a sign the Soviet Union has no hope of an early end to the East-West conflict and is going under wraps.

Well, anyway, we're still keeping the Russians off the sports page.

Looking Ahead

By GEORGE S. BENSON

Plea For Action

ONE REASON why there is apt to be a battle in the coming Congress over taxes and government spending is that things have come to the place where everyone expects somebody else to do something about it.

You see, everybody favors economy for the other person, or the other bureau. But nobody does anything much about it. America needs action, in this respect. I am hoping that every public servant will take his cue and do exactly what everybody expects of him: Economize!

Such action on the part of Washington bureaucrats would be so out of the ordinary that it would result in reams of publicity for anyone willing to try it. Very likely, too, it would endear any bureaucrat to the public mind so much that his political fortunes would be made from that time on. I would like to see such a movement for eliminating waste and extravagance catch fire and get somewhere.

BUT THIS BIG, growing formation of crust at the top knows well how to protect itself and what ever it holds within. Our biggest monopoly, "big government," is trying hard to keep in power and to withstand the advocates of economy. Big government is well-equipped to resist any effort to economize, particularly if it means lopping off personnel and offices. Each bureau is free to devote all the time and attention it wants to "keeping on."

When called upon for information or to testify before Congressional committees, these bureaus are always ready to present pleas for more money. But nobody has heard them make any real offers to economize. As for revealing their story to the public, the all-too-common attitude is that what the public doesn't know, and what the Congress doesn't know, won't hurt anybody. It would be real news indeed, if some bureau should offer to cut its budget for next year.

PERHAPS THIS is why our Senator John McClellan has just suggested an accounting agency that would keep up with the doings of big government and report to the Congress in an unbiased manner on budgets and spending. That agency would cost money, itself. But the Senator's idea is that it would soon pay for itself—and more. How else, asks the Senator, can Congress get information it can use in making intelligent appropriations?

Resistance to economy in government is terrific. Each and every bureau has its pet plans, and hardly a spending project in Washington is not somebody's pet. For either a bureaucrat or a Congressman to toss his responsibility around, with the tag "just political" is simply to ignore realities and get in the usual Washington rut. We need men in government that are real public servants, not political spenders.

IT IS OBVIOUS that not a single recommendation of the Hoover Committee could ever go into effect, as long as political spenders rule. Nor will any more of its recommendations be used, unless we have public servants willing to do what the people want done. The American people have a right to expect these politically chosen men, elected or appointed, to be real public servants. This includes practicing economy at all times, where the people's money is concerned.

This has not been done in the past. Extravagance has been the rule of the day. We are now at the point where federal and local taxes consume more than 30 per cent of our national income. Experts say that when a nation is taxed more than 25 per cent of its national income, disaster is ahead. The duty of economy lies heavily on every man in government. He must uphold economy as a principle, not just favor it for some other bureau.

Everything Normal

By TRUMAN TWILL

FOR YEARS, the Twillerys have had thermometers hanging inside and outside and has consulted them endlessly to see how the temperature was.

But not one of these doo-dads ever was checked against an official thermometer, which means that a lot of conclusions must have been jumped at on false evidence.

There must have been hundreds of times when the thermometer said it was too cold in the living room and therefore someone had better run down to do something constructive about the fire, when in truth the temperature was just right and the thermometer was wrong.

Many mornings when the thermometer said it was too warm to wear a coat, the facts must have been otherwise, which possibly explains what was construed as evidence of anemia at the time.

In the present Twillery, the thermometer setup has gone haywire. The one on the west side of the house, thoughtfully provided by the insurance company, says it's 10 above zero when the one on the east side of the house, thoughtfully provided by the hardware company, says it's 4 above zero.

The thermometer in the kitchen says it's 68 and still says so when taken into the dining room and set alongside the thermometer in there, which says it's 74. And so on, throughout the whole assortment of household thermometers.

Like the clocks, they never agree. No one knows what time it is, or what the temperature is. But a lot of valuable energy is being used up arguing about it.

That's why the Twillery is going to be equipped in the near future—as soon as a surreptitious switch of thermometers can be arranged—with some improved equipment.

The outside thermometers are going to read 10 above zero for winter and 76 for summer. The inside ones are going to read 75 the year around. This will take all the guesswork out of thermometer reading—will positively take it out because the thermometers aren't going to thermometer any more. The fluid's going to be drained out and the temperature painted on the tube.

There will be no more arguments based on discrepancies. There will be, instead, a series of clean-cut decisions. At 10 above, mittens and caps are mandatory, no quibbling. At 75 the premises are being suitably heated, no criticism of the fireman. At 76 it's warm enough to justify summer activities, but not too warm to have hot tea instead of iced tea.

And while this improvement is being handled, there's another thermometer that's going to get attention—that baffling one always being stuck under the tongue of the first sap who shows symptoms of catchin' sumpin'. It's going to be fixed so it will always be at the little line where it says "Normal," meaning let the sap alone and everything probably will be all right tomorrow.

One way and another, there are too darned many thermometers hanging around and too many people hanging around thermometers, trying to make up their minds whether things are going from bad to worse or from bad to better. Tell the people what they want to know and they'll be happy.

Sad Christmas Tale

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK
"HAVE a nice Christmas?"

No thanks, I just had one. What I am looking for now is a bear trap — to catch Santa Claus.

It's a long story. Sit down and I'll tell it to you.

My Christmas started out real nice. I got dozens of friendly messages. Some of them were from known people. The governor of Michigan sent me a Christmas card. And so did Dorothy Lamour, Roy Rogers, Morey Amsterdam, Comic Sid Caesar and Pretty Margaret Phelan, the red-haired warbler at the Waldorf.

And somebody sent a scarf. Another fellow sent a bottle of bourbon to help tide us over the water shortage. And, naturally, I got a necktie. It came from a bachelor. It was a delicate purple and decorated with 15 naked ladies seated, with hands clasped over their knees. I intend to offer the whole tie to the museum of modern art, as I would feel a little silly going around with 15 unclad ladies dangling from my neck. Who wants to look like a sales catalog of French postcards?

BUT THE PLEASANTEST part of my Christmas was the goodwill expressed on cards sent by readers. I thought it was kind of them indeed to take time out from their own busy day to send a greeting to a guy they'd never met except in a newspaper.

One old Irish lady in Denver wrote "May God bless you and keep you in good health."

Well, I went home from work last Friday feeling good about everything.

"What do you most want Santa Claus to bring you?" Frances asked.

"I asked him to bring me a couch for my Brown study," I said.

"It wouldn't amaze me if he did, Rover boy," said my wife. My "Brown study" is a utility bedroom that I have been trying for three years to convert into a workplace. In that time I have furnished it with a rug, a desk, a chair, some books and a typewriter. But it needed a couch. A couch is as essential to a columnist as it is to a psychiatrist, as all really deep thinking is done horizontally.

Well, a few hours after I got home there came a rap on the door. Three perspiring express men stood outside.

"Santa sent you a couch—we are his little helpers," they said. "Sign here. Where ya want it?"

THEY LUGGED IN the pillows and the mattress and the slide-out understructure—and put them in the Brown study. Then grunting and graining, all three lifted the heavy couch frame. They bore it through the living room. But it stuck in the door leading to the study.

"Easy does it—turn it around," said the straw boss.

Seventeen tries later he said: "It just won't go in. It's too big for the doorway."

So they carted it back into the living room, set it on its side, and left saying:

"Sorry Mac. Merry Christmas to all."

And there the couch frame is now—still on its side in the living room. I have to climb over it to sit in my reading chair. And what we are going to do about it, I don't know. Couches don't shrink and doorways won't expand.

Santa Claus just forgot to make a few measurements. And you know what I'd like to do? I'd like to go to his house at the North Pole and wait until he took Mrs. Claus out to the movies. Then I'd like to put a big horse in his bathtub and tie it to the faucet with a sign saying: "Merry Christmas—bah, humbug!"

Deming Offices Expanding Into Second Floor Addition

With the completion of the second floor of the new Deming office addition last week, the billing, ordering and stenographic departments are being moved in this week.

The room, 50 by 60 feet, was constructed above a first floor room completed two years ago. The brick exterior was continued up for the second floor.

Acoustical ceiling, heavy asphalt base floor tile and blue pastel smooth plaster were used for the interior. Non-glare lighting fixtures are installed at the ceiling. Casement-type windows were chosen for this addition.

Lighting and heating facilities in the room are so arranged that separate offices may be constructed at a later date if needed. The room is heated with steam units.

One of the features, which will be especially valuable in the order department, is the installation of a series of tubes which will carry small containers and messages from the production offices to and from this department. The system resembles familiar department store systems.

The Riley Construction Co. held the general contract with other work being done by the Firestone Electric Co. and the Salem Plumbing and Heating Co.

Lodge Room Remodeled

The Moose clubroom remodeling program is completed and the top-floor activities room is busy with Christmas events.

The $5,000 project includes the lowering of the ceiling four feet. Both the ceiling and walls are now covered with swirl plaster. In pastel colors the ceiling is buff and the walls light blue.

The new floor was laid with asphalt base tile blocks. It covers an area 30 by 64 feet. Fifty new chrome chairs and other equipment were secured. Recently acquired but used before remodeling, the lighting fixtures and gas heating units have been placed in operation.

Contracts for this work were held by A. C. Hively, painters; Firestone Electric and Italiano and Sons.

Sears Gets New Front

The front wall of the new Sears-Roebuck building has been torn out and construction of the new store will get underway soon. Originally the company planned to retain and remodel the two-story front but decided to give Salem another modern retail store exterior.

The new front will display limestone and brick with two large show windows extending almost the width of the building.

The display windows will have no permanent back so patrons may look directly into the store—another recent merchandising trend. The entrance will be placed in the center of the building front.

Four sets of four large windows will be spaced across the front on the second floor. They will extend on that floor over the Golden Eagle rooms.

Spokesmen for Kille and Haessly, general contractors, said workmen also will start pouring the 50 cubic yards of cement for the basement floor. When completed, the floor will be four inches thick.

It's Been a Good Year

Four reasons have been listed by the National Association of Home Builders to explain why more than a million new houses have been started during 1949. They are: general prosperity this year, good housing, held-down prices and good consumer financing.

The Association also offered a four-point program for maintaining this level of production. The building situation next year will depend much on retaining a high level of productivity in all industries, no substantial pay boosts, better constructed and lower-priced houses and the availability of money to finance the construction.

Construction Up

Over-all construction figures for the first 11 months of this year show that $177,000,000 worth of construction got underway from January through November, according to the Commerce Department figures. This is two per cent higher than given for the same period last year.

Class Reviews Math

The trade problems of brick masons have been studied by apprentices in the Salem Trade Extension classes as for the past four months they have concentrated on "Elementary Mathematics."

In this section they have a review of the six fundamental mathematical operations: addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, raising to powers and extracting roots. They also solve complex fractional problems and learn mathematical shortcuts.

In the other phase of their study during this period, "Blueprint Reading for Brickmasons," they studied symbols and conventions, scale representations, specifications and practice problems in blueprint reading.

Bell Ringing Safer

Electrical supplies stores have recently welcomed a simple device by which a common door bell transformer may be easily attached to a conduit box through a knock-out hole.

Formerly there was fire danger in attaching most bell transformers to joists because of possible shorts, or electricians had to go through the involved process of attaching the transformer to conduit boxes.

Ranch Home Underway

The framework is up for the new home at 1421 Ridgewood dr., which is being built by A. L. Bricker, local contractor.

It will contain six rooms, including three bedrooms, bath, kitchen and dining room. A full basement will be underneath. The house is 38 by 36 feet at the foundation.

A ranch style house, it will be covered with lap siding. Bricker expects it to be completed by March at a cost of approximately $11,000.

Insulation Important

"Don't sacrifice good construction principles for cheapness," is the warning note builders sound as the trend towards economy housing grows. It is false economy, they say, to eliminate fundamentals.

A home design, for example, that does not include insulation cannot qualify as a true economy house. Fuel costs alone, builders point out, make it imperative nowadays that houses be insulated.

Because of the availability of dual-purpose materials, there are economical ways to insulate a house. An efficient means of retarding the passage of heat involves the use of insulating board sheathing. It provides both sheathing and insulation for a single cost.

Another way to make a home easier to heat in winter and to keep cooler in summer is to use insulating board lath as a plaster base. There also are pre-finished insulating boards which can be used as interior finish.

New Materials Shown

To an increasing extent, home building can proceed right through the winter by the utilization of new materials and equipment that will be on display at the Building Materials and Equipment Exposition at the Cleveland Public Auditorium Jan. 24-26.

Both the exhibits and the proceedings of the annual convention of the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers, which is sponsoring the Exposition, will attack this seasonal factor in the costs of construction.

Save Basement Space

Allow more basement floor area for a recreation room or laundry center by installing a hot water or steam heating system in the home. The boiler and small distribution pipes of such a system require only about half the space needed for heating systems which use ducts for heat distribution.

New Flooring Cited

Ranch plank flooring was developed especially for use in the currently popular ranch style house. However, architects and interior decorators are now suggesting it for traditional types of homes and apartments.

With alternate widths, beveled edges and walnut pegs, it gives an effect similar to expensive random width floors, and it is particularly suited for all quaint colonial and provincial styles. In modern rooms the oak grain and varied widths contrast with plain fabrics and functional furniture.

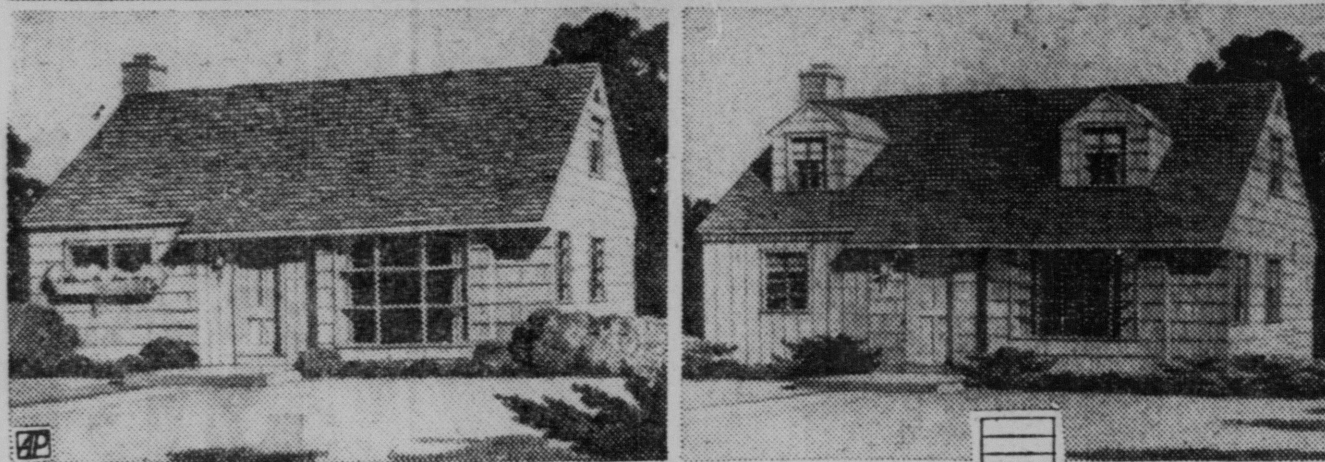

Completely finished at the factories, including walnut pegs which are made a part of the floor, this type of floor cost no more than commonly used strip flooring and it is just as easily installed.

Insulate For Savings

The U. S. Bureau of Mines in a recent circular recommends insulation as the most important means of saving fuel. It points out four methods for home-owners to reduce their fuel costs: inspect and adjust all heating equipment; install storm windows and storm doors; caulk and weatherstrip cracks around windows and doors; insulate walls and ceilings.

"A series of tests by the Tennessee Valley Authority on two identical houses, one insulated with three and five-eighths inches of mineral wool and the other without that insulation, revealed

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

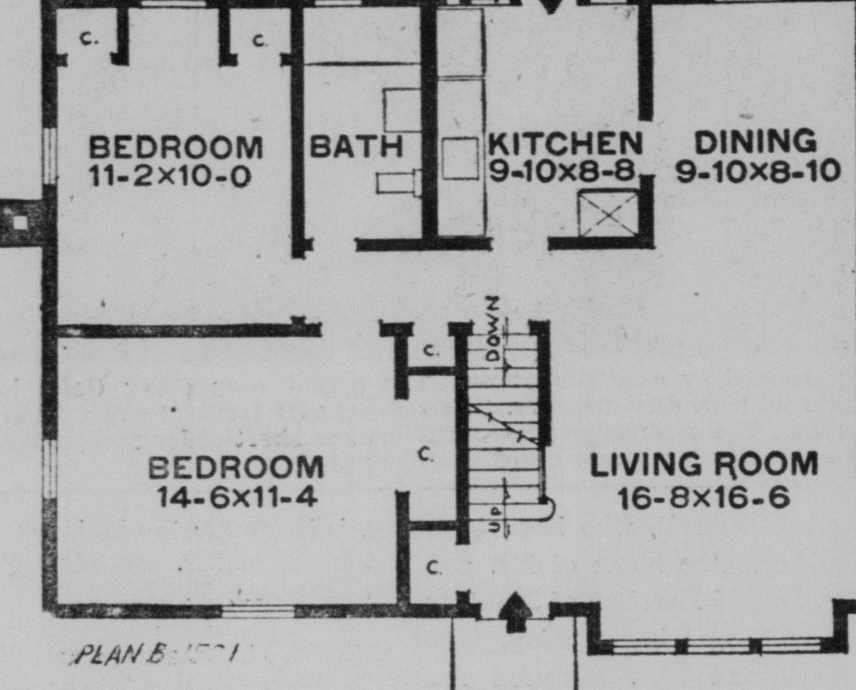

A SMART PLAN for economical construction, this layout can be given a variation of external treatments. Two of four facade designs are shown here.

This is plan B-1521 by Alvin Cassens, Jr., architect, 116-55 Queens Boulevard, Forest Hills, N. Y. It covers an area of 923 square feet and has an additional 350 square feet of floor space upstairs. With basement it has a content of 20,416 cubic feet. The simple rectangle of this plan, broken only by its large protruding picture window, keeps building costs down. A sheltered entrance is provided by the wide roof overhang in front.

a heat saving differential in the insulated house of 44.75 per cent."

The easiest and quickest type of insulation of mineral wool or similar insulation is with batt-type blankets. The cheapest system is in bags. The most complete job is done by the blown-in method of wool insulation which must be done by professionals with proper equipment.

Safer Materials Cited

In an effort to reduce the nation's huge annual loss of life and property due to fires, fire-fighting experts are placing more and more emphasis on fire-safe construction in home as well as commercial, industrial and farm buildings.

The National Fire Protection Association reports that in the 202 largest fires in the country last year the greatest contributing factor to damage was inferior construction. Other sources report that in residential fires much of the damage can be attributed to combustible roofs and exterior walls which permit fires to spread.

Use of fire-proof or fire-resistant materials is urged as one of the most effective means of protecting homes and other buildings from destruction by fire. Various types of such materials are now available.

Among those widely employed are asbestos cement products, which come in the form of roofing, siding, general purpose board and corrugated sheets. They are made of two virtually indestructible substances, asbestos fibers and Portland cement.

Hammer Hint Given

Here's a way to facilitate driving nails into hard wood. American Builders magazine suggests boring a hole in the end of the hammer handle and filling the hole with paraffin. Then each nail can be lubricated quickly by pushing it into the paraffin.

Washingtonville Gets School Rest Rooms

Work got underway last week on construction of the sanitation unit for Washingtonville school. Rest room facilities will be provided for 200 children although there are not quite that many in school now. Leetonia Superintendent C. H. Allison said. The Washingtonville school is a part of the Leetonia system.

The modern inside accommodations are expected to be completed within two months Supt. Allison added. It is being financed jointly by the local school district through a one-mill levy and with state aid.

When it is installed this unit, will complete the modernization of rest rooms in the three Leetonia schools.

J. G. Madden of East Palestine holds the building contract, while Glenn Hawkins of Rogers is doing the plumbing.

New Windshield Cuts Glare

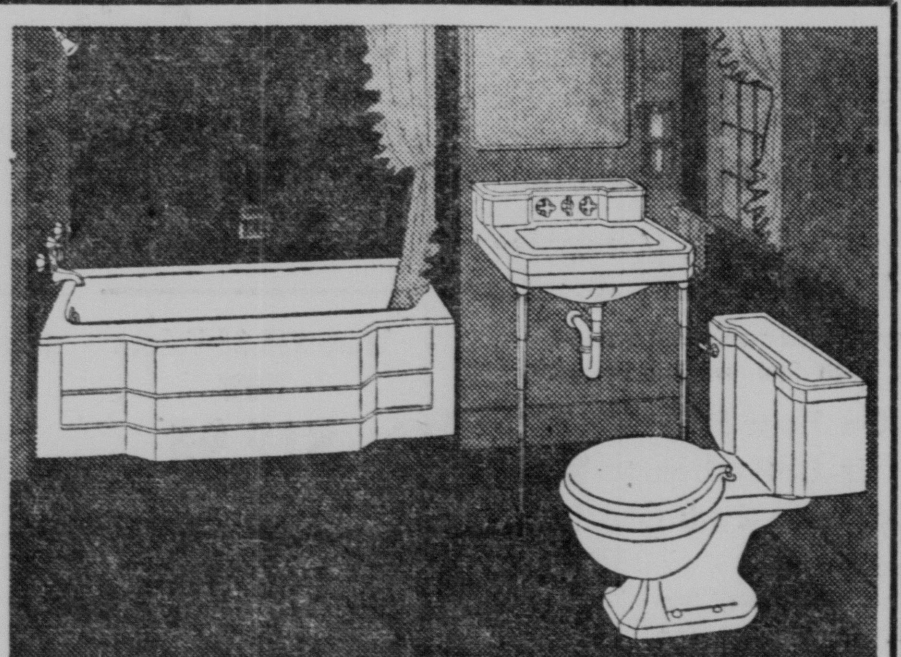

TWINSHIELD GIRLS Eilene and Elaine Helmke of Toledo, O., face photographer's bright lights to demonstrate new windshield glass (right) which cuts down usual bright glare (left).

NEW YORK—A glassmaker has come up with a new automobile windshield glass that will take some of the sting out of the glaring headlights of oncoming cars.

Since "sealed beam" headlights were developed some years back, the average car's main lights have been so dazzling they are nearly always a great annoyance to motorist and often a serious danger on the roads.

To meet this problem at least part way, the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. has produced a new glare-reducing safety plate glass for windshields. It has a slight bluish-green tint. Iron added to the raw material mixture largely does the trick.

The new glass has been road-tested and has been found to cut glare materially, whether from headlights or the sun.

Group Seeks Repeal Of War's Excise Taxes

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—The repeal of wartime excise taxes on so-called "luxury goods" will be demanded by a new group formed here yesterday.

Named the national committee for the repeal of wartime excise taxes, it is made up largely of executives connected with the taxed industries.

The only groups affected by excise taxes that were left out were the alcohol, tobacco and gasoline industries, which have paid excise taxes for years.

The other taxed items include furs, jewelry, entertainment, transportation tickets, phonograph records, luggage, cameras, telephone calls, and a variety of other merchandise and services.

The committee, made up so far of 38 members, calls the war-imposed taxes discriminatory and will work for their earliest repeal.

Chairman of the new group is Arde Bulova, board chairman of the Bulova Watch Co. A vice chairman is Eric Johnson, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Toy Campaign Pushed By Legion

COLUMBUS, Dec. 27—(AP)—Ohio American Legion posts this week will collect new toys and prepare them for shipment to Europe as part of the Legion's nationwide "tide of toys" project.

The period from Dec. 26 to Jan. 26 has been set aside by proclamation by Gov. Frank J. Lausche for the Ohio toy collection.

He described the campaign as "an extension of our spirit of neighborliness and a demonstration of international friendship." Toys from all over the nation will be sent to Philadelphia where they will be put on a ship for Europe. Each child giving a toy is being asked to include a written greeting.

CONTINUE SCHEDULE

LORAIN, Dec. 27—(AP)—The National Tube Co., employing nearly 11,000 here, will continue to operate at normal production during the holidays. Most of Lorain's other industrial activity will be down for a three-day holiday to end Tuesday morning.

Moon Temperatures Can Be Recorded

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—Radar can now read the temperature down under the surface of the ground on the moon.

This was reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by the Collins Radio Co.

They did it during the last eclipse of the moon. The cold spell on the moon during the hours when the earth blotted out the sunlight was so terrific that half a foot below the surface of the moon was several degrees under freezing.

The report said that radar waves penetrate under the surface and show that the moon's face is probably made of dust.

The radar used was a wartime product made at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Raisin cake served with a hot lemon sauce makes a nutritious and delicious dessert suitable for all members of the family.

If you are serving rolls for a holiday dinner be sure to heat them right. You can use a bun warmer, a double boiler, or you can put them in a brown paper bag—with the top tightly closed by twisting—in a moderate oven.

Do not cook mushrooms over too high heat or too long or they will toughen.

Softened cream cheese with orange juice, sweetener, and flavor, with a little of the grated orange rind; serve as a topping for steamed fruit pudding.

Onion juice helps point up the flavor of a casserole of macaroni and cheese.

Broiled grapefruit may serve as a first course or as dessert. To broil cut in halves and remove any seeds and center. Separate the sections with the point of a sharp knife. Sprinkle the grapefruit halves with cinnamon and brown sugar and with butter or margarine. Broil until the grapefruit pulp is hot and the sugar begins to caramelize.

Colorful Yule Party Held At Kelley Home

Numbered among the outstanding social gatherings of the Yule season was the party given by Joseph F. Kelley and his sister, Carol, Sunday evening at their home, N. Lincoln ave.

Approximately 90 guests, most of them students home from college, were entertained informally.

Those from out of town were John Springer and Arthur Hook of Bay Village; Robert Ballantine of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. James C. Britt of Worthington; Mr. and Mrs. Ford Fay Miskell of Shaker Heights; Neil Cocker and Miss Teddy Elert of Detroit and Miss Joanne Morrison of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Joseph is a student at Medical College, Western Reserve University, and Carol attends Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

STROUSS-HIRSHBERG'S OF SALEM

Three Top-Flight Teams Invade Quaker Gym This Week

Millermen Play Garfield, Dayton On Double-Header Card; Visitors Impressive

By BOB DIXON
News Sports Editor

None of the three teams invading the Salem High gym this week—Cleveland Garfield Heights, Dayton Roosevelt and Pittsburgh Westinghouse—can be rated as a pushover. All three are first class ball clubs, as their records indicate.

Salem's Quakers, who must face Garfield and Dayton, will have their work cut out for them in no uncertain terms. The Garfield team last year ran up a string of 22 consecutive wins and were undefeated in regular season play. Dayton, on the other hand, was runnerup team in their district tournament.

Bob Miller's team will play Garfield at 9 p. m. Thursday following the Dayton-Pittsburgh game. On Friday night, the Quakers face Dayton, with Pittsburgh tangling with Garfield Heights.

Garfield, probably, is the roughest of the three. They are paced by their sky-scraping center, Frank Petrancek, who goes six foot-seven inches. A much improved cager over last year, Petrancek is currently averaging 20 points per game.

Heights' Coach Carl McCulloch has some other big boys on his crew, too. Elmer Gough goes 6-5 and Bill Murray is 6-3. Both are Juniors. Others on the roster include Tom Boyer, 6-0. Both are Juniors. Others on the roster include Tom Boyer, 6-0. Bob McCormick, 6-1, Chuck McSweeney, 5-10, Gene Montowski, 6-0, and Norm Schiely, 5-11. Outside of Petrancek, none of those named were starters on McCulloch's 1948-49 squad.

The Westinghouse five from Pittsburgh were Pennsylvania Section One champions last season, with a record of 15-4. The year before they were Pittsburgh city champs and went to the state semi-finals.

Willard Fisher is the Westinghouse coach. According to advance information, he will start a team that averages just under 5-11, with the height centered in Ken Strom, 6-3, and Maurice Stokes, 6-2. The other starters are all 5-8. They include John Nunlist, Gene Phelps and Dino Savio.

Coach John Woolums of Dayton Roosevelt will bring a rangy ball club, which was district runnerup last season. Only two lettermen returned this season to form a nucleus.

They are Bill Frederick, 5-10, the club's leading scorer, and little Nick Nicholas, 5-6, who made his letter last year as a freshman. Woolums will also use Bob Jones, 6-2, Ken Eller, 5-11, George Anderson, 6-1, and Jack Croy, 6-2.

In preparation for the grueling double-header Thursday and Friday, Bob Miller drilled his Quakers twice a day last week. He still is not satisfied with their passing and ball handling and is attempting to iron out the rough spots.

Miller is set with his starting five of Bob Theiss, Jim Callahan, Bob Coy, Don Abrams and George Reash. Bob Bush, Tom Pastier and Jim Cosgarea will probably see a lot of action this week.

The Quakers will average close to six feet and shouldn't be at too great a disadvantage in height with their two opponents, save Petrancek. Miller will probably attempt to box in the big Garfield pivot man and may be able to do so on the small Salem floor.

He indicated recently that a defense similar to that used against Bob Payer by Warren three years ago may be the answer. Warren didn't attempt to outreach Payer, but put a small, quick defensive man on him, playing to one side. The effectiveness of the defense lost Salem a tournament game.

If the Quaker coach can devise a way to stop Petrancek Salem stands a good chance to upset Garfield. The latter club has been beaten this season in their first start. Cleveland John Adams turned the trick 44-42.

At any rate, local fans should jam the gym Thursday and Friday to watch the bargain bills.

State And Cal Both Dangerous

Have Men Who Can Go All The Way For TD's

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 27 (AP)—California and Ohio State each will field large football teams in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2, and rival lines gifted in stout defensive tactics that can hardly bid for crowd appeal.

But each team also packs a player or two able and liable to explode for long scoring plays which very definitely qualify for the fancy of the football fan.

Ohio State employs an offense that stems off the T, the split T and even drifts into a single wing on occasion, and most any one in the four backfield positions is apt to throw a pass when least expected.

California is more conservative in the passing department, quarterback Bob Celeri handling this chore almost exclusively. His elective pass-run threat, however, can keep opponents in a quandry and the onlookers in a state of excitement.

Only yesterday Coach Lynn Waldorf of California mentioned that he has no climax runner such as he had last year in halfback Jackie Jensen.

Waldorf probably meant he had no consistent climax runner, but there was nothing wrong with halfback Frank Brunk the day he ran 102 yards to sink the Rose Bowl dreams of Southern California, or Brunk's efforts when he filled in for the injured Jensen in last New Year's Day's Rose Bowl game with Northwestern.

And halfback Jim Monachino was certainly not dogging it when he reeled off 84 yards and ruined Stanford this season.

Ohio State's halfback Jerry Krall wheeled away 59 yards to help whip Indiana in the longest run from scrimmage for the Bucks this season, and halfback Jim Clark's pass to Tom Watson went for 65 yards in the Buckeyes' futile thrust at a then mighty Minnesota. Fans here well recalled husky Fred (Curly) Morrison scoring against USC on the tail end of a 57-yard pass-lateral play.

Coach Wes Fesler himself is no stranger to long runs. His 99-yard gallop against Northwestern in 1929 is still a course record for the stadium at Columbus.

Such was in prospect as the two teams plotted further drills, Ohio State here and the Golden Bears at nearby Riverside.

Due to the Bear camp was halfback Jack Swamer, detained at home awaiting the arrival of the stork. Swamer, incidentally, is on the explosive side, too. He came off the injury list against Stanford to roll up 100 yards and three touchdowns in 15 trips with the ball.

And Celeri, don't forget, holds six all-time school records for passing and is responsible for 1,135 yards running and passing the ball this year.

Rupp Out To Break Sugar Bowl Jinx

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27 (AP)—Can Adolph Rupp's magic break the Sugar Bowl jinx that has held his Kentucky basketball team in check for ten years?

Rupp's coaching has been so effective elsewhere that Kentucky and basketball mean almost the same thing to the average cage fan.

But there is something about the Sugar Bowl that defies him. His team won its first two outings, but things began to go wrong in 1940. In the last three times Kentucky has appeared in the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament, his magic has backfired.

The tournament this year brings Kentucky and three of the nation's leading teams together Thursday and Friday as a part of the week-long Sugar Bowl sports carnival.

The yachting is over, but boxing, tennis, basketball, track and football are still to come.

And this is the basketball and the Louisiana State University-Oklahoma football game that attract the most interest.

Rupp's team meets Villanova Thursday night and the potent Tulane squad plays Bradley. A not-at-all certain victory would give Kentucky a shot at the Tulane-Bradley winner and at its first Sugar Bowl championship since the Wildcats beat Ohio State 36-30 in 1939 for their second Sugar Bowl title.

Since then Kentucky has been beaten 48-45 by Indiana in 1940, 36-31 by Oklahoma A. and M. in 1936 and by St. Louis 42-40 in 1948.

Grover Alexander In Hospital For Checkup

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27 (AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, one of the greatest pitchers in the history of baseball, is in a hospital to learn if he is suffering from cancer.

Two years ago in St. Louis his right ear was cut off in an attempt to halt a cancer. Physicians believe an injury the great right-hander suffered in 1908 in Indianapolis when he was struck by a pitched ball is partly responsible for his condition.

Physicians say that incomplete tests indicate cancer of the ear duct.

Alexander, now 62, was named to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1938. From 1911 to 1930 he piled up 373 wins, for an average of 18.6 triumphs per season.

Ez Charles Rates Another Ring Award

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—Ezzard Charles continues to pick up awards for his ring work in 1949.

Latest honor for the NBA-recognized world heavyweight champion is to be named "Fighter of the Year" by Editor Nat Fleischer of Ring Magazine. The award is announced in a copyrighted article in the February issue.

Charles, the Cincinnati Negro who earned NBA title recognition as successor to Joe Louis by beating Jersey Joe Walcott recently, was voted the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque by the New York Boxing Writers association. He will accept both awards at the Writers' annual dinner, Jan. 12.

Fleischer may have stirred up an international situation in his boxing ratings by placing England's Freddie Mills, world light heavyweight champion, third in his division. Nat put Joey Maxim of Cleveland and Archie Moore of St. Louis and Toledo ahead of the champ.

Mills and Maxim meet in London Jan. 24 in a title bout that should straighten out that situation.

Fleischer still refuses to recognize Charles as world champ, pointing out that Bruce Woodcock of England and Lee Savold of Paterson, N. J., have legitimate claims.

Walcott, Lee Oma of Detroit, Woodcock and Savold are placed in the same Group 2 but Charles is rated all by himself in Group 1.

The ring editor goes on record as believing it likely that Joe Louis will re-enter the heavyweight sweepstakes. He is not alone in that viewpoint as Joe continues to tour the nation in his 10-round exhibitions.

Among the better new prospects, Fleischer listed lightweight, Wallace (Bud) Smith of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Royce G. Martin's Sport Page, a bright prospect for the 1949 Kentucky Derby before going bad, is on the comeback trail at Hialeah.

Explains Kansas' Out-Of-Bounds Play

BY JACK GARDNER
Kansas State Coach

MANHATTAN, Kans. — (NEA)—Having possession out-of-bounds and under the basket being attacked, Kansas State's forwards, F1 and F2, line up for the set play shown in the accompanying diagram.

On a signal from the center, who is off the court, they fake as if to cross, spread toward the sidelines. The center passes to whichever one is open, to F1 in the diagram. F2 immediately comes back into the basket area for a quick pass from F1, who then cuts off F2 for a return pass if F2 isn't open for a shot from under the basket. The pass may be a safety pass out to G2, who cuts off the screen set by G1.

Kansas State out-of bounds.

The centered moves under the basket after passing to be in a good rebound position. G1 stays back for defensive balance.

As a variation, F1 and F2 may cross to set up the play.

Indianapolis Tied For Second Place

The Indianapolis Capitols are tied for second place in the American Hockey league's western division but a Hershey rookie prevented a similar climb by New Haven in the eastern race.

The Capitols moved into a tie with St. Louis, 12 points back of front-running Cleveland, by turning back the Pittsburgh Hornets last night, 8-4.

New Haven's Ramblers could have jumped from a tie for third to a tie for second in the tighter eastern division but rookie Barton Bradley scored three goals that gave the Hershey Bears a 6-5 victory.

So Buffalo, idle last night, remains in second place, close on the heels of leading Providence. Only three points separate the first four clubs in the eastern race.

Ten major leaguers have struck out five times during a game.

North All-Star Team Wins 20-14

Cop Second Shrinker Game In Orange Bowl

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—A squad of hand-picked northern college football players overpowered a select group of southern collegians in the second annual Shrine charity game in the Orange Bowl last night, 20-14.

The Yankees evened the score for last year's 24-14 southern triumph and did it convincingly before 37,378 rain-soaked fans.

Yale Coach Herman Hickman's hefties came charging back to erase a 0-7 half-time deficit with two quick touchdowns in the third quarter and another in the fourth.

The Rebels, under Coaches Andy Gustafson of Miami and Bob Woodruff of Baylor, grabbed a lead in the second quarter on an 80-yard touchdown run by Vanderbilt's Lee Nalley.

The speedy halfback took a handoff from Miami's Whitey Campbell and, behind perfect blocking, raced down the sidelines to put the South ahead. Forrest Griffith of Kansas added the extra point, his first of two for the evening.

With the third period only five minutes old, the Yankees struck for the first touchdown with Notre Dame's Walter Grothaus recovering a South fumble on the South's 24.

Two plays later Villanova's Steve Romanik passed to Harry Wettlaufer of Pennsylvania to the eight. Larry Coutre of Notre Dame rammed through to the four and then squirmed to the one foot line.

Romanik sneaked over for the touchdown. Ralph Pasqueriello of Villanova missed the extra point.

The South still led, but not for long. Pennsylvania's Ray Dooney took a pitchout around right end and went eight yards to score with two Rebel tacklers still hanging on. Billy Bye of Minnesota kicked the extra point and the Yankees went ahead, 13-7.

The North hiked its lead in the fourth quarter after Dooney recovered a South fumble on the Rebel 10. On the next play Pasqueriello scored on a pitchout around right end. Bye again added the extra point.

Rupe Wright of Baylor recovered Dooney's fumble on the North's 43 and the Rebels took it from there, Griffith traveling the final 15 yards for the touchdown. The Yankees racked up 22 first downs to the South's seven and gained 350 net yards rushing to the Rebels' 73.

Harness race horses competed for nearly $11,000,000 in purses in 1949, an increase of more than $500,000 over the previous year.

Three players have won the U.S. and British Amateur golf championships in the same year—Harold H. Hilton, Bobby Jones and Lawson Little.

Williams Takes Top Slugging Honors

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP)—Boston's Ted Williams was officially crowned the American league's 1949 slugging king today and 30 major league records were certified as broken or tied for the season.

Williams, shaded out of the batting title by Detroit's George Kell 3429 to 3427, hammered .650 in the slugging division. This percentage is figured on bases on balls drawn and runs driven in.

Williams and his teammate, Vern Stephens, finished in a dead heat for the RBI honor, each slugging in 159.

Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees sidelined until midseason with a painful heel injury, was second among sluggers with .596. Stephens, the stocky Red Sox shortstop, was third with .539. DiMaggio belted in 67 runs in 76 games. Williams and Stephens were in 155 games.

Williams again was the most feared batter. Pitchers gave up 162 walks to him—13 more than to Philadelphia's Eddie Joost, second in this bracket. Ted fanned 48 times. Dick Kokos of the St. Louis Browns was the No. 1 strikeout victim. He was whiffed 91 times, once more than Cleveland's Larry Doby.

Among the major league records broken were 217 double plays by Philadelphia, and a total of 103 errors committed by Cleveland lowest in history. Cleveland also tied its own fielding mark of .983. In double plays, Boston also cracked the old record with 207, finishing second to the Athletics for 1949.

The league as a whole set records with most bases on balls in a season, 1,487, and fewest passed balls, 53.

Jack Gray, who has been head basketball coach at Texas since 1937, was named to that post when he was 25 years old.

The Calumet two-year-old, Fanfare, is a dead-ringer for his older half-brother, Coaltown, and is considered the leading prospect among Warren Wright's "baby" racers.

More Than Half Cars Are Pre-War Models

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—The head of General Motors figures that around 55 to 60 per cent of autos now running are pre-war.

Charles E. Wilson, making that estimate, added: "The used cars are still overpriced as compared to pre-war—if you put the dollar back in its purchasing power with relation to a new car."

Wilson was interviewed by editors of U. S. News and World Report, weekly news magazine published here. It copyrighted the article.

Among other things, he said he expects the next new development in the automobile will be "the use of high-octane fuel with more efficient engines." Another way to save fuel would be to lessen a car's weight, he said, "if you can take weight out, make the car just as good a performer and just as convenient for riding."

Wilson said he doesn't expect any radical or revolutionary changes in cars in the next few years. He said also he doesn't expect there will ever be a less-than-$1,000 car again because "people don't want the kind of car you would have to make in order to price it under $1,000. You would have to take too much out."

Speaking generally, Wilson said that 1950 should be another good year for business, if nothing happens to scare American buyers.

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
AP Newsfeatures Writer
SO FAR this Twentieth Century has had more than its share of Uncommon Men.

It has produced Winston Churchill, who took a Britain gasping in near-defeat and carried it by indomitable inspiration through blood, toil, tears and sweat to victory in the greatest war of history. It produced Revolutionist Nikolai Lenin, the father of Communist Russia and the maker of Communist doctrine which under Josef Stalin has spread and already left its mark upon a quarter of the earth's face. It also produced a housepainter turned dictator—Adolf Hitler—whose dreams of world power may have more devastating effects on humanity than any similar madness in world history.

In almost every field of activity, the first years of this century have produced men of rare genius.

STATESMEN? Historians will remember Franklin D. Roosevelt, as spearhead of a pronounced shift in American theory of government, only four-term president in our country's existence, precedent-breaker and leader of the world's forces against Hitler.

Literary lights? Many people along with George Bernard Shaw himself—wrap the mantle of greatness around that bearded Irish playwright's shoulders. Other critics say that hundreds of years from now the world will read, with reverence, works of this century's French Novelist Marcel Proust and American Poet Robert Frost.

Spiritual Leaders? Mohandas K. Gandhi, slight, non-violent liberator of India's millions who was shot down by an assassin's bullet in 1948, seems destined to live as one of the great martyrs of history.

THIS HAS BEEN a half-century of dramatic scientific and industrial change, produced by scores—if not hundreds—of men whose names will be remembered as long as recorded words are kept.

Name after distinguished name could be added to the rolls for the harnessing of atomic energy—a feat which, of itself, will make these times forever memorable. Hahn, Meitner, Fermi, Oppenheimer—these and others joined in the greatest achievement of science ever known.

The towering names to live in science may be those of Albert Einstein, who gave the world his sensational theory of relativity; of Sigmund Freud, whose findings have sparked the great field of psychiatry; of Guglielmo Marconi, father of radio; and of Dr. Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin, one of the pace-setters in the life-saving realm of antibiotic drugs.

IN INVENTIVE GENIUS, a 20th Century name stands alone: the name of Thomas Alva Edison, of the incandescent lamp, the motion picture, and hundreds of others.

Nor will tomorrow forget Henry Ford, who developed the assembly line of production which put America in the forefront of the world's powers. Nor Wilbur and Orville Wright, who in 1903 sent a plane into the air at Kitty Hawk, N. C., for 59 seconds and began the era of flight. Nor the Polish chemist Casimir Funk, who isolated the first vitamins, nor the Canadian doctors, Banting and Best, who isolated the first hormones which already have saved the lives of millions.

It does not necessarily follow, of course, that the names of those most noted today will live the longest in the future. Among 20th Century Greats may be a worker in an obscure laboratory, a writer of books unknown to the critics, a preacher in little-traveled fields. Some of the greatest figures of the past were not recognized in their own time or on earth.

But there is no doubt, as of now, that when the half century's story is told it will be done in terms of men deserving a place with the legendary figures of the past. We have seen greatness in our time.

Tariff Reductions Effective Jan. 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(UP)—The White House has announced that recently negotiated tariff reductions on rum and nine other products will go into effect Jan. 1.

The reductions were worked out between the United States and Haiti at last summer's international tariff conference in Annecy, France. The United States also negotiated agreements with nine other nations.

The White House said the Haitian schedule would apply to all imports of the commodities covered in the agreement, regardless of where they originate.

Under the new tariff schedules, import duties on rum will drop from $2.25 to $1.75 per "proof gallon," that is, per actual gallon of alcohol in rum.

Other products affected include vetiver oil, certain mahogany household ware, orange peel, mangoes, prepared pineapples and some jellies, jams, marmalade and fruit butter.

In addition, the agreement pledges the United States to freeze its present tariff rates on vegetable fibers and some articles manufactured from them.

Stuff steamed figs with cream cheese and serve with colaslaw. This combination is delicious with baked beans for lunch or supper.

Questions and Answers

Q: When is the big dipper visible?

A: North of latitude 40 degrees, the Great Dipper never goes below the horizon, and even from more southerly parts of the United States, most of it remains continually in the sky.

Q: Is the Walter engine an American development?

A: The so-called Walter engine is a German development which uses hydrogen peroxide. It is said to be extremely efficient for use in submarines, particularly for emergency speeds of 25 knots, but it is extremely uneconomical because it requires peroxide of 90 per cent purity.

Einstein Has New Theory

Releases Work On Mystery Of Gravity

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein, whose theory of relativity helped open up the whole vast field of atomic research, has put forward an even more sensational theory.

He calls it "a generalized theory of gravitation."

It is a mathematical description of the mystery of gravity—the common force that keeps our feet on the floor and rules the movements of the stars.

If it can be proved, it will become a "universal law" and, in the view of other scientists, will stand as the highest scientific achievement of all time.

It would explain every physical motion in the universe, from the inside of an atom to the enormous galaxies of outer space.

It would crown with success the life work of Einstein, who has spent the last half of his 70 years looking for the answer to this ultimate problem, known to science as the "unified field theory."

It was revealed to the world here yesterday on 20 mimeographed pages—a mixture of typewritten words and squiggly mathematical symbols that even scientists hesitated to interpret.

It was the English translation of Einstein's original German.

Einstein describes it as an extension of his relativity theory, and was quick to point out that he has "not yet found a practical way to confront the results of the theory with experimental evidence"—or in short, to prove it.

When he published the "general theory of relativity" in 1915, Einstein suggested several actual tests that could be made to prove his ideas—and which actually did prove them in 1921. But this new theory is apparently so abstract that Einstein could not think of a physical test for it.

Local Donors Thanked By Amvet Commander

Amvet Commander Ralph Mancuso today thanked Salem citizens for their generosity in donating to the post's Christmas grocery campaign, which provided food for needy families.

The Amvets reported over 1500 pounds of groceries collected from the containers which were placed in local grocery stores last week. The food was used to make up 19 baskets and was distributed to Salem families. The balance was turned over to the Salvation Army for distribution.

The Amvets also purchased and distributed 25 other Christmas baskets last Saturday to families whose names were furnished by the Red Cross.
